Discuss / Consider

1. Review the mystery, "Christ in you, the hope of glory." The Church as the body of Christ was not known in the Old Testament. Jews and Gentiles brought together as one body with Christ as the head was a new concept hidden before. Aren't you thankful that Christ assigned Paul to make this mystery known?

2. Review the three aspects of Paul's service to Christ. Measure your service in these terms.

- 2. "In Christ are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge." Colossians 2:3. Do you really believe this? How does your life reflect this belief?

3. If you have not sensed a conflict in your prayer life, consider the reasons. Determine to be more serious in this battle, realizing that true prayer is a conflict (check out the two aspects here—your casualness or perseverance in prayer, and the struggle against spiritual forces of evil).

Challenge

1. Look at your prayer life for others relative to its nature, scope and content. It might help to think of a specific person, and then to jot down your prayer requests for him/her. How can your prayers better fit the biblical pattern of prayer? Are you in the habit of praying primarily for secular needs?

- 3. Some Gnostics said that since the body is evil, you can indulge it and do whatever you want, because it's only the spirit that counts.
- 4. Encouragement and establishment in the faith

- 2. Mysticism is the belief that direct knowledge of God, spiritual truth, and/or reality can be obtained through subjective experiences. The Gnostics encouraged the worship of angels.
- 3. No, experience has its place in Christianity. The danger is to want these feelings all of the time, so you begin to focus on spiritual experiences like visions and the dramatic spiritual gifts. As such, you depend less on the word of God and more on feelings.
- 4. Jesus Christ. He is the head; believers are the body (the church).
- 5. Jesus Christ. He is the head; believers are the body (the church).
- 6. Asceticism is the belief that salvation and/or sanctification comes through severe treatment of the body. It is a wrong idea of sanctification or becoming more spiritual. Now some were becoming Christians, and a part of the church at Colossae, so they were to be accepted as brothers and sisters.
- 2. The supremacy and all-sufficiency of Christ.

Relating to Fellow Believers in Grace and Love Colossians 3:12-17

υu	CHILIC	II PU	шь

1. We must relate to fellow believers.

Practical Application

1. Grade yourself on a Relating-to-fellow-believers report card.

Questions

- 1. What is the Greek origin of "bowels of mercy?"
- 2. What does it mean to translate Scripture literally and culturally?
- 3. Explain each of the following words in terms of relating to fellow-believers:
 - a. Christian graces, including forbearance (Colossians 3:12-13)
 - b. Love (Colossians 3:14)
 - c. Peace of God (Colossians 3:15)
 - d. Teaching (and admonishing and singing) (Colossians 3:16)
 - e. Thankfulness (Colossians 3:15, 17)
- 4. What is the key to good relationships?

- 1. It means compassion, a heart of compassion, tender mercies. The Greek word means "intestines," and in that time and culture your intestines were considered the seat of affection.
- 2. To read and interpret it just as it is written, and to understand the cultural term, which broadens the meaning and helps to build a bridge to a contemporary meaning of terms.
- 3 a. Forbearance is more than tolerance (when you could retaliate or humiliate, you withhold for the sake of Christ).
 - b. "Agape" type of love (the love of the will, a voluntary denial of self in the interest of others).
 - c. Letting peace be the umpire, calling it in relation to one another (an example would be church music, when elders say what type it will be, accept it and live with it, even if it's not your style).
 - d. Relating with teaching, with the word of God by knowing what you are teaching, and being what you can be; singing helps to cement people together, especially singing Scripture.
 - e. in the context of relations with fellow-believers, regardless of their faults and our faults, being thankful for one another.
- 4. Letting Christ be supreme and all-sufficient (in graces and love).

Family Relationships (Submission) Colossians 3:18-4:1

Background
Doctrinal Points
1. We must relate to God's authority structures.
Practical Application
1. Remember the model of our Lord Jesus as a teenager.
Questions
1. According to this passage, which categories of people were in the first century Colossian church?
2. What age were the "children" (Colossians 3:20)?
3. List the four authority structures through which God has chosen to channel His authority.
4. Define the word, "submit." Why do we have negative reactions to this word?
5. Does the phrase, "as is fitting in the Lord," excuse us from being subject to one another?
6. What is the best argument for children to obey their parents?

7. As authority figures, how should parents relate to their children?

1. Wives, husbands, children, fathers, servants, and masters
2. Youth, pre-teens and teenagers
3. Family, church, state, and labor
4. To yield to governance or authority. We think of it as a "put-down," or making us of lesser value. Such is not the case with God's authority structure, for submission is not inferiority.
5. Not necessarily, but sometimes there is a higher authority. An example would be when a non-Christian husband gives a non-biblical command to his wife. She can refer to other lines of authority to which she is subject, such as the elders of the church.
6. Because it pleases the Lord.
7. They should not provoke their children, exasperate them, or nag them. Parents should be flexible, so as not to discourage their children, or make them lose their love for them, or become spiritless.
Discuss / Consider
1. Re-read the portions of this passage that relate specifically to your role, and determine how you can fulfill that role biblically.
2. Do you find it difficult to submit to God's authority structures? If so, why?

Challenge

1. Determine to fulfill your role biblically, and to submit graciously to God's authority structures.

Relationships Between Slaves and Masters Colossians 3:22-4:1

Background
Doctrinal Points 1. We must submit to God's authority structures.
Practical Application
1. Let's not play favorites.
Questions
1. Review the five New Testament approaches to slavery as a part of the first century Roman Empire.
2. What is the underlying New Testament approach to the problem of slavery?
3. What is the source of all authority?
 In the slave-master or employee-employer line of authority, review and discuss the meaning of: a. "according to the flesh" (Colossians 3:22)
b. "not with eye service, as men pleasers" (Colossians 3:22)
c. "inheritance" (Colossians 3:24)
d. "just and fair" (Colossians 4:1)

5. Discuss the meaning of Colossians 3:25.

- 1. New Testament approaches to slavery in the first century: a. slavery is neither prohibited nor promoted b. Christian slaves were not to revolt, but Christian masters were not prevented from releasing their slaves c. while the institution of slavery is not condemned in the New Testament, the abuses of it are strongly condemned id. f Christian masters followed New Testament directions concerning slaves, the employer-employee relationship would be good e. it was the outworking of New Testament Christian principles that finally led to the abolition of slavery, both in the Roman Empire and eventually in our own country.
- 2. Not revolution, but the gradual outworking of Christian principles, starting in the home.
- 3. All authority finds itself in God. There are times when authority is misused and abused, and even directed against God Himself, but only because God has allowed it. Even Satan's temporary authority derives from God.
- 4. a. In this line of authority, the area of labor. A Christian slave in the Colossian church could have been an elder or church leader, where the master could have been subordinate to the slave in the church.
- b. This means not just when the master is watching. The slave is serving Christ, even if the master is not a Christian. It means doing the right thing, even if a job is on the line. Submission is required as long as it does not counter God's principles
- c. Slaves would not get any earthly inheritance, but by submitting to the authority structures that God has designed, they will receive an inheritance and a reward.
- d. Masters (the boss in the labor force) are the authority figure. He is to be just and fair in payment, in work load, and in privileges.
- 5. Because there is not to be partiality, the authority figure will be repaid for doing wrong, as well as for doing right. This is true in all lines of authority.

Discuss / Consider

- 1. Review your job (school, home) relationships. Do you submit to the authority structure? How pleasantly or how grudgingly do you submit?
- 2. Is your service to the Lord or to men? Are you more concerned with how the Lord views your work, or how man views what you do?
- 3. If you were asked by your supervisor (teacher, husband) to do something against God's principles, how would you respond? Cite some specific examples.

Challenge

1. Are you just and fair in all of your relationships? Are you in line with what God expects from you? If not, determine to set things right.

Redeeming the Time: Open Doors of Opportunity Colossians 4:2-6

Background
Doctrinal Points
We should be concerned about outsiders.
Practical Application
Let's put some moral bite into our talk with outsiders.
Questions
Describe the conditions of Paul's first imprisonment in Rome.
2. Interpret Colossians 4:6, "let your speechbe seasoned with salt."
3. Recall the structure of this practical section of Colossians. Draw and label each of the concentric circles.
4. How are we to pray for outsiders (unbelievers)? See Colossians 4:2-4.
5. How are we to witness to unbelievers? See Colossians 4:5-6.

6. How are we to redeem the time? See Colossians 4:5.

- 1. Paul was under house arrest, which meant being confined to a house (which he was able to rent). He was free to have visitors, preach, teach and write letters. However, he was under constant guard, even being chained to a Roman guard. This took place during his first Roman imprisonment during the early 60s A.D. (Refer to Acts 28).
- 2. Today we use salt to flavor our food, but then salt was used as a preservative. Our speech, as Christians, should help prevent cultural moral decay.
- 3. Concentric circles Making Christ Supreme and All-sufficient a. Outer circle: We should be concerned with outsiders (Colossians 4:2-6) b. Next circle: We must submit to God's authority structures (Colossians 3:18-4:1) c. Next circle: We must relate properly to fellow-believers (Colossians 3:1-17) d. Next circle: We must practice putting off the old man, putting on the new (Colossians 3:6-10) e. Inner circle: We are to practice the biblical method of gaining victory over sin (Colossians 3:1-3)
- 4. For their salvation
- 5. We are to walk in wisdom, watching our lifestyle. Unbelievers watch and judge Christians more harshly than they judge unbelievers.
- 6. Make the most of opportunities. Capitalize on the windows of time that the Lord gives to you. "Strike while the iron is hot." Be aware of opportunities when you are traveling, or with neighbors, or on the job, or in the classroom, etc.

2. How can you combat spiritual drowsiness in your life?

Challenge

1. Pray for open doors to speak to an unbeliever in your life (a neighbor, a colleague, a fellow-worker, a classmate, a family member). Be ready to walk through the doors that God opens for you.

Final Greetings to the Colossians Colossians 4:7-9

Background
Doctrinal Points 1. In Tychicus we are taught three of God's quality-control standards for Christians.
2. Salvation does not relieve us of our social obligations.
Practical Application 1. Let's be a typical Tychicus and an open Onesimus.
Questions
1. In which book of the Bible do we learn more about Onesimus?
2. What is a quality-control standard?
3. List the three quality-control standards of God, as seen in Tychicus.
4. What is an important lesson learned from Onesimus?
5. What should a person do about sins he committed before he became a Christian?

- 1. The book of Philemon
- 2. They are standards a product must meet before a company will release it to the public.
- 3. a) a beloved brother, b) a faithful minister, c) a fellow bond-servant
- 4. We are taught that salvation does not relieve us of our social obligations.
- 5. Make them right in the eyes of the Lord and with the person offended.

Discuss / Consider

1. Review God's quality-control standards. Are they true in your life? Are you easy to be with? Are you helpful and dependable? Are you a true bond-slave of Jesus Christ? It is never too late to develop these qualities!

Challenge

1. Are there sins in your life that you committed before you became a Christian that need to be dealt with? If so, deal with them according to biblical principles.

The Conclusion of Paul's Letter to the Colossians Colossians 4:10-11

Background
Doctrinal Points
1. Failure is not final.
Practical Application
1. Your failure is not final.
Questions
1. What do we know about Aristarchus?
2. What do we know about Mark?
3. Who was Justus?
4. How was each of these brothers helpful to Paul?
5. Does failure have to be final?
6. How did Mark overcome failure?

- 1. He was a fellow-prisoner with Paul. He likely voluntarily made himself a prisoner to help Paul by assisting him in his ministry.
- 2. Mark as a cousin of Barnabas. He wrote the gospel of Mark. On his first missionary journey with Paul, he quit and returned to Jerusalem (Acts 13:13).
- 3. He is mentioned only in Colossians 4:11. He changed his name to Justus, perhaps not to lower the name of Jesus. He was "of the circumcision," a Jewish fellow worker.
- 4. They were a comfort and help to Paul as he labored in the gospel.
- 5. No. God can pick up the pieces and make something beautiful out of a life, any life.
- 6. Paul had refused to take Mark after he quit, and he was useless for a time. Then Mark proved himself, and was approved by Paul and by God Himself (2 Timothy 4:11). He was chosen to write, by inspiration of God, the gospel of Mark. The theme of Mark's gospel, incidentally, is a servant.

Discuss / Consider

1. Failure does not have to be final. Review how Mark overcame failure. Recall some area in your life where you have failed. By God's strength you can overcome these failures.

2. Do you believe that God can make something beautiful of your life? Believe it! Discuss how God can take all things and work them together for God. The ultimate good is being conformed to the image of Christ. Praise God that He can do this with you.

Challenge

1. Are you willing to submit yourself to help someone else in the ministry of the gospel of Christ? Think of specific ways in which you could do this (and with whom).

Wrestling in Prayer Colossians 4:12-14

0010351a113 4.12 14
Background
Doctrinal Points
1. Wrestling in prayer brings results.
Practical Application
1. Let's be people pray-ers like Epaphras.
Questions
1. What was the outstanding service of Epaphras?
2. Who was Luke?
3. Who was Demas? Would he be a model to follow? Explain.
4. For what did Epaphras pray specifically? What were the results?
5. What does it mean to labor earnestly in prayer?
6. Is it wrong to pray for programs, church buildings, finances, health, job situations, and the like?

- 1. He labored fervently in prayer for the Colossian believers.
- 2. Paul's beloved physician, a Gentile. He joined Paul on his second missionary journey (see Acts 16:10). He was a faithful and productive Christian, writing much of the New Testament (Luke and Acts). He had a change of career, from doctor to missionary.
- 3. There was no commendation for him (perhaps a foreshadowing of his desertion). He would not be a model to follow because he was a deserter.
- 4. He labored in prayer for the church at Colossae. The Colossian believers did not capitulate to the false teaching around them, and they continued to grow spiritually.
- 6. No. But following the example of Paul and Epaphras, being people pray-ers rather than program pray-ers, would seem to bring more lasting results.

Discuss / Consider

1. Have you ever labored earnestly in prayer? This is a wonderful habit to develop. How can you wrestle for a fellow believer's spiritual growth?

2. What does it mean to be a righteous person? See James 5:16. Should you expect your prayers to be effective?

Challenge

1. Pray like Epaphras prayed. As you pray this week, keep track of your prayers. Then keep a record of when and how your prayers are answered.

Challenge 1. Would you be willing to open your home on a regular basis for the Lord's work? Are you doing this now?
